Universities of Applied Sciences (UAS) are regionally-embedded higher education institutions that work in close collaboration with local partners to finding solutions to place-based challenges. As such, UAS are:

With a large part of the Horizon Europe budget available for application-focused research, the 9th EU framework programme for R&I carries a huge potential for UAS. Therefore, we want to dedicate our 3rd Networking Conference to offering a mid-term review of Horizon Europe from the perspective of the applied sciences.

The conference will be structured in two parts

- Political discussions on 22 May 2023, and
- Interactive breakout sessions on 23 May 2023

We look forward to discussing how to make Horizon Europe even better with you and a high-level line-up of key decision-makers from within and beyond the EU!
